

Courage

Dear Brave Heart,

I know that there have been and are times when you feel helpless and hopeless. Remember, I am ever present to provide you with my strength and compassion in bearing your pain and sorrow. I have overcome the world and that same power is available to you to be an overcomer as well. You bless me as you choose to not give up but to trust me and go on. The rewards of the overcomer are greater than you can possibly imagine. Check that out in the second and third chapters of Revelations. As resurrection and eternal life in the Kingdom of Heaven were the Father's plan for me, so it is for you. Never doubt that His plan is different or His power insufficient to bring you through. He is greater than all and no one can steal you from Him. Praise Him and pray in the spirit more and you will see great things.

Confidently yours,

Jesus
